DEPOSITION OF ANTHONY FISCHER

Taken on Behalf of the Plaintiff

November 5, 2014

Anthony Fischer
November 5, 2014

1 reverse lookup.

2 Q. And have you ever done that on an aggregate
3 basis? And by aggregate, I mean, you know, have you taken a
4 huge list of numbers and done a reverse lookup?

5 A. I don't believe so. Typically I don't -- I
6 don't need to do a reverse lookup because the type of data
7 that I'm looking at typically is a CSR, which is the customer
8 service record, and that does in fact provide me with a list
9 of telephone numbers and where they actually terminate. So I
10 typically don't have a need for that.

11 Q. So when you're talking about a customer service
12 record with a list of numbers and where they terminate --

13 A. From a provider.

14 Q. From a provider. And when you're talking about
15 that, are you talking about from the party that's calling or 16 the party that's called?

17 A. The party that's called, typically.

18 Q. And is it just one party, or are you looking at
19 multiple parties?

20 A. A customer service record could have multiple
21 locations on it and a list of numbers for each of those
22 locations.

23 Q. But, still, that doesn't answer my question.
24 Are you talking about one customer, or are you talking about
25 multiple customers?

Anthony Fischer
November 5, 2014

1 A. Typically a CSR is for one customer, but it
2 could contain many other locations.

3 Q. Okay. Do you believe, based on your
4 experience, that the use of reverse lookup would also provide
5 a reasonable starting place to locate where a telephone
6 number terminates?

7 MR. GRUBER: Object to form. Calls for
8 speculation.

9 THE WITNESS: It could be a useful tool, yes.

10 BY MS. REITEN: (Continuing)

11 Q. And isn't it also true that a reverse lookup,
12 you know, some of these databases like -- well, actually, let
13 me start over.

14 Are you familiar with LexisNexis, and Westlaw
15 people search, and databases along those lines?

16 A. Are those customer databases?

17 Q. They're for locating persons or businesses.

18 A. So I'm not familiar with those particular ones,
19 but I am familiar with Hoover's.

20 Q. What about Experian or Nexa Group?

21 A. Experian, yes. Nexa Group, no.

22 Q. Would the databases that you are familiar with,
23 do you know if they can also report on the dates that a phone
24 number was disconnected or changed?

25 A. With Neustar, which is the -- utilizes the port

Anthony Fischer
November 5, 2014

1 PS tool, yes, you can get information on when a number was
2 ported and what carrier owns that number now.

3 Q. And then I take it from your testimony, what
4 we've been discussing, that the best way to determine where a
5 party was located when they received the call is from their
6 own personal service records?

7 A. Uh-huh. Their provider.

8 Q. And that would include their billing records?

9 A. Uh-huh. Their billing records. Possibly a
10 customer service record from each of those customers that
11 actually would provide a circuit ID of where that number
12 terminated on, and then typically from that circuit ID you
13 could determine where in fact that circuit lands or what type
14 of service it is.

15 Q. Couldn't you also just ask the called party
16 where they were when they received the call?

17 MR. GRUBER: Object. Calls for speculation.
18 Object to form.

19 THE WITNESS: You could. But in the case of a
20 forwarded call to a cell phone, that could -- that could
21 really -- that could change their response.

22 BY MS. REITEN: (Continuing)

23 Q. Well, what I'm saying is is that you could ask
24 them if they remember where they were, and if they do
25 remember, they could tell you.

Anthony Fischer
November 5, 2014

1 A. Yeah, it's possible. For instance, if you were
2 to load an invalid number into a dialer, it would be
3 disrupted at the provider's network. It would be sent to
4 what we call a treatment, which is, the number that you
5 dialed is not in service, and the dialer would abandon that.

6 Q. But on the dialer records would it still show
7 that that number was actually dialed?

8 A. Yes, I believe that it would.

9 Q. Okay. And let me ask you this. Earlier you
10 were testifying on this idea that the called party's billing
11 records for something like a reverse call up -- or, excuse
12 me, reverse call lookup records, that those types of 13 documents might be a, quote, good starting point for trying
14 to determine where the call physically terminated.

15 A. Uh-huh.

16 Q. But these records still would not address the 17 problem of where the phone call physically terminated; is 18 that correct?

19 A. That's correct. That's why the most accurate
20 document I feel that is out there would be the call party's
21 service provider's records.

22 Q. Okay. And would you still need to look at 23 each -- strike that.

24 Would you still need to compare the dialer
25 records to each individual called party's provider records to
